

Article

Prescription Charges Coalition

NRAS is working with the Prescription Charges Coalition to campaign to scrap prescription charges for people in England with long-term conditions.

Print

Rheumatoid arthritis is for life. A chronic disease with no cure. The quality of my life is dependent on a cocktail of 10 different drugs. With them, I can almost live a normal life, without them, I would be a burden on society, needing constant long term care at a huge cost to the state.

England is the only nation of the United Kingdom in which people still pay prescription charges. For people living with RA, JIA and other long-term conditions, this can be a serious financial burden.

NRAS is one of the 51 charities who form the Prescription Charges Coalition seeking to scrap prescription charges for people in England living with long-term conditions.

If you have an experience you would like to share relating to prescription charges or would like to support this campaign, please email our campaigns team, campaigns@nras.org.uk with the message subject 'NRAS prescription charges campaign'.

Prescription charges coalition website

Find out more about the coalition and their work.

News, 15 Apr

Prescription charges set to rise

[The Department for Health and Social Care have confirmed that the prescription charge for England is set to rise from £9.65 to £9.90 per item. This is an increase of 2.59% on last year's cost. It has been announced that there will be an increase in the cost of prescriptions in England from the 1 \[...\]](#)

Article

Prescription charges

Prescription medications are free for patients in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. In England, however, there is currently a charge per item which many people may have to pay if they are not eligible for free prescriptions. This can become expensive but there are options for spreading the cost through a pre-paid prescription certificate \(PPC\) or obtaining help with health care costs.

This article was downloaded from www.nras.org.uk. National Rheumatoid Arthritis Society (NRAS) is a registered charity in England and Wales (1134859) and Scotland (SC039721). A private company limited by guarantee. Registered in England and Wales (7127101).