Job Description

The National Rheumatoid Arthritis Society (NRAS), is the only patient-led organisation in the UK specialising in rheumatoid arthritis (RA) as well as juvenile idiopathic arthritis (JIA). Due to its targeted focus on RA and JIA, NRAS provides truly expert and wide-ranging services to support, educate and campaign for people living with these complex autoimmune conditions, their families and the health professionals who treat them.

The Co-ordinator will be part of a team responsible for delivery of support resources and signposting to callers to the Helpline, email enquiries, online community enquiries, booked referral calls for patients, and ad hoc information events. They will also be involved in the production and updating of information resources and website.

Main Purpose of Job

- Handling and responding to incoming helpline calls and emails daily. Provide high-quality, up to date information in an empathetic manner tailored to the individual.
- Offer signposting to NRAS services and other external providers.
- Capture all data accurately following GDPR guidelines using CRM systems.

- Arranging and making calls to people referred by external Health Care Professionals (HCPs) to our Right Start service, our flagship telephone based service.
- Monitoring and responding to, as appropriate, online community posts and enquiries i.e. via HealthUnlocked and other social media.
- Collaborating with NRAS colleagues to support the review and updating of information resources.
- Keeping up to date in understanding the current situation across the UK for the management and treatment of RA and JIA and helping to keep the entire NRAS team updated on these developments.
- Continuing to support the development of both the JIA and NRAS websites, maintaining content, which is interactive, interesting and up to date.
- Have an understanding of benefits available to people with RA and JIA and how to apply for them.
- Support the team manager and departmental director with tasks as the need arises.
