

Article

NRAS statement on accessibility

Print

The site is designed to meet the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 2.0, and to conform with the BSI PAS 78:2006 guidelines where possible.

Browser Support

There will always be small differences in the display between browsers, but we do aim to broadly support:

- Internet Explorer 7+ for Windows
- Safari for the Macintosh
- Mozilla Firefox for all platforms
- Google Chrome for all platforms

Use of Cookies

Every user is informed about how the site uses cookies on their first visit. For more information see our cookies policy.

How you can help

We know how important it is for everyone to have access to good health information, which is why we aim to make our website and information products as accessible as possible to as many people as possible.

There is always more that we can do and there will always be some thing that we miss. We will continue to work on improving this, and we really welcome your help. So, if you spot an error on our website or have problems accessing our information or have any suggestions for how we can improve our website, please contact us, using the link below:

Web link

Accessibility

Click here for information on our ongoing efforts to make our website more accessible.

NRAS in 2023

- 0 Helpline enquiries
- 0 Publications sent out
- 0 People reached

This article was downloaded from www.nras.org.uk. National Rheumatoid Arthritis Society (NRAS) is a registered charity in England and Wales (1134859) and Scotland (SC039721). A private company limited by guarantee. Registered in England and Wales (7127101).