

Resource

Treatment Updates

From new drug treatments being approved or starting drug trials to an improved understanding of the drugs already existing as treatments in RA and the optimal ways of using these drugs to treat the condition, our drug updates will help to inform patients of the latest information on RA drugs.

Print

Since the advent of the first biological drugs in RA in the late 1990s, there has been a huge amount of research into new medications. This century has already seen a number of new biologic drugs, as well as biosimilars of the early biologics as they have come out of their patents. We have also seen the emergence of the JAK inhibitors, which offer another form of drug treatment, working differently to biologic drugs and available to take as a tablet, rather than by injection or infusion.

From new drug treatments being approved or starting drug trials to an improved understanding of the drugs already existing as treatments in RA and the optimal ways of using these drugs to treat the condition, our drug updates will help to inform patients of the latest information on RA drugs.

Medicines in rheumatoid arthritis

We believe it is essential that people living with RA understand why certain medicines are used, when they are used and how they work to manage the condition.

Order/Download

Image not found or type unknown

Article

Study finds RA drug has no placental transfer in pregnancy

A study in Paris has shown that the biologic anti-TNF drug certolizumab pegol does not cross the placenta and is therefore not present in the blood of newborn infants.

Article

Chronotherapy: The science of timing drugs to our body clock

ns worse in the morning. Doctors are now beginning to stiffen up overnight through lack of use.

Article

Co-Proxamol

The licence for co-proxamol was withdrawn in 2007, but for a small number of patients already taking the drug and who did not respond well to a suitable alternative, it continues to be prescribed on a named patient basis.

Read more

Latest research updates

Research gives us a better understanding of what causes RA, how best to treat and manage the condition and hopefully one day how it might be cured.

This article was downloaded from www.nras.org.uk. National Rheumatoid Arthritis Society (NRAS) is a registered charity in England and Wales (1134859) and Scotland (SC039721). A private company limited by guarantee. Registered in England and Wales (7127101).