

Resource

Juvenile idiopathic arthritis (JIA)

JIA is the term used to describe types of arthritis that start in childhood (below the age of 16). In addition to our continued work on RA, NRAS has set up a service called JIA-at-NRAS to help those affected by JIA.

Print

Approximately 12,000 children and young people in the UK have JIA which represents 1 child in every 1000 under the age of 16.?

JIA is one of the most common causes of physical disability in childhood yet many people are unaware children can get inflammatory arthritis. ?

We have set up a service called JIA-at-NRAS, to raise awareness of JIA, provide information and support to families, campaign at government level to ensure that the needs of families, children and ood and prioritised.?

Web link

Visit the JIA website

This article was downloaded from www.nras.org.uk. National Rheumatoid Arthritis Society (NRAS) is a registered charity in England and Wales (1134859) and Scotland (SC039721). A private company limited by guarantee. Registered in England and Wales (7127101).